Kiwanis Club Gives Money To Plant Trees On Junipero

Native trees, ranging in size from six to ten feet, will be planted in the Junipero Avenue center planting strip above Ocean Avenue with funds donated by the Carmel Kiwanis Club. This decision was made last week at a meeting of city officials and club members.

City Forester Hugh Smith will prepare a planting plan for the city council, also Kiwanis members.

Those who met on Junipero Avenue were Charles Marcolli, Robert McIntyre and Hal Armor, members of the Kiwanis tree committee, also Mayor Herbert Blanks, Councilman and Street Commissioner Stephen Grant, Street Superintendent William Askew and Mr. Smith.

The Kiwanis Club is providing $280 for the civic beautification project.

All League Players Announced At CHS Football Banquet

Carmel High School varsity football players were honored at a banquet at La Playa Hotel last Thursday evening. All League players were named and awards presented at the affair sponsored by the Padre Boosters comprised of members of the Carmel High School Parents Club.

Commander William C. Stowers (USN) was master of ceremonies and introduced Luke Phillips, head coach at Monterey Peninsula College, who was the speaker of the evening. Approximately 100 persons, including the varsity squad, their parents and guests were present.

Carmel High's varsity ended the season sharing first place in the Mission Trails Athletic League with King City. Last game of the season was on November 14 when Carmel retained "The Shoe" by defeating its arch-rival, Pacific Grove, on Bardarson Field.

At last Thursday's banquet, team members were introduced by Coaches Hadley Hicks and Jason Harbert. In turn, the players introduced their parents or sponsors.

Mr. Hicks presented Ralph Juarez with the "most valuable player" award. The "most inspirational player" award was given to Fred Gehring by Mr. Harbert.

Medill Bair, superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District, will present "the most scholastically improved" award to a recipient who will be announced at a later date.

The perpetual James M. Kelsey award, which is based on leadership, scholarship, cooperation and sportsmanship, was presented by Mr. Kelsey to Bill Stowers, co-captain of the '64 varsity with Fred Gehring.

Fred and Bill made a gift presentation to Coach Harbert and Jay Lang made a similar presentation to Coach Hicks.

Culminating the season, was the announcement at the banquet of the "all league" selections.

Named to the all league offensive team were Bill Stowers, tackle; Tim Hall, guard; John Tolan, fullback; and Ralph Juarez and Charlie Eyster, halfbacks.

Placed on the all league defensive team were Bill Stowers, Tim Hall and Charlie Eyster.

In a dedication of the housing for members of Carmel Foundation, Dr. Remsen Bird said,

"It is most fitting that the apartment building now acquired by Carmel Foundation . . . shall be named Trevvett Court.

"This foundation, directed to the service of older people, concerned for their care and the goodness of their lives, owes its origin and support in the years of its beginning and the proving of its value, fundamentally to Jane Egan Trevvett, honorary president."

CARMEL VIEWS REZONING

The Monterey County Planning Commission, yesterday refused the rezoning application made by Russell Galloway for land north of Rancho Rio Vista. Consideration of plans for Carmel Views, the subdivision of the above land, was set for January 26.

Carmelites Far Away This Thanksgiving Day

We are not too modest to boast that Carmel is a mecca for travelers from around the world, but it is equally true that each year Carmelites, dozens and dozens of them, board planes, ships and trains that carry them far away, for a while, from home. Their letters from north, east, south and west laud the wonders of the the world, but now that the holiday season is really with us, we have reports of Carmelites hurrying home, or making plans to "join up" in far places, to exchange news and, we hope, to enjoy their holidays in true Carmel tradition.

Mrs. Gabrielle (Gay) Kuster, who has been travelling in Europe since last spring, is in Athens now and planning a "quick" trip to Egypt. But, in plenty of time, she will travel to Baghdad to join Walter and Mausita Jennings in mid-December, and the three will be in Jerusalem for Christmas and make a leisurely tour of the Holy Land.

Mausita's parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. Maus Purple, tell us triumphantly, "Of course, Walter and Mausita will have a real Carmel Thanksgiving dinner in their new home, with all its new electrical appliances. The house is in the American sector of Baghdad, across from the American embassy. Mausita wrote that she wasn't too happy about the turkey situation.

Date Set For Sand Castles On The Beach

By M. C. Patrick

If a man's home is his castle, he can build it with free materials, on a free lot on Carmel Beach and be King for a Day. That day is Sunday, December 6, and the place is Cooke's Cove at the foot of Thirteenth Street. No building permit is necessary and any pine trees found here may be cut down with impugnity. The occasion is the Great Sand Castle Contest.

This year the "cultural" event is sponsored by the local A.I.A. (American Institute of Architects). Don Brown, spokesman and general factotum for the fun-loving group, says that the contest is open to man, woman, child, or others.

"We haven't set the exact categories yet," Don says, "but last year we offered prizes in Romanesque, Gothic, Assyrian, Art Nouveau, and Contemporary, to name a few. We even had a prize for Largest and Most Confused. We're all experts on that, you know."

Last year the Grand Prize went to a non-castle display of the Sphinx and Great Pyramids, a product of college student team work.

The sand in Cooke's Cove is especially good for castle building,

Council Committee Completes Series Of Annexation Meetings

The city council's ad hoc committee on annexation, Monday night, completed a series of public meetings with residents of the three areas from which requests to circulate annexation petitions have been received by the council.

The second meeting, with Mission Tract residents, was held on Thursday of last week. Monday night, persons who live in the Walker Tract, Mission Fields, Rio Way Tract and portions of Hatton Fields Mesa gave Councilmen Eben Whittlesey and Stephen Grant their views on annexation. The first meeting was on November 17. Carmel Point residents spoke at this time.

The ad hoc committee, appointed by Mayor Herbert Blanks, using information obtained at the three meetings, will advise other councilmen on December 9 whether or not it is advisable to begin annexation procedure in any of the three areas.

Walker Tract, Mission Fields

Residents of the Walker Tract, Mission Fields, Rio Way Tract and portions of Hatton Fields Mesa turned out in less force than residents of other areas being considered for annexation. Proponents were one less in number than opponents.

In favor of annexation were Tom Brown, Robert C. Gilmour, Peter Lyon, Colonel Arthur H. Black, Mrs. Emory S. Adams and Reed Freeman.

Protestants were Mrs. Kenneth Holbrook, Major John Wecker, Mrs. Francis L. Beardsley, Clem Trapkus, Tom Argust, Arthur E. Willert and Lloyd Cunningham.

Mr. Brown opened discussion in favor of annexation.

"Annexation will cost more money but we'll get our money's worth" was his statement as an insurance agent after outlining the advantages to Mission Fields residents of fire and police protection resulting from annexation.

"We have a real fire problem," he declared, then pointed out that annexation would provide needed police patrols in his area.

Robert Gilmour of Mission Fields called opponents of annexation "a vociferous group" and said these opponents "shout, harass and protest, also use the mails to spread innuendoes. They want no part of Carmel but the prestige of the address. They are not willing to let annexation come to a democratic vote.

Mr. Gilmour recounted that hydrants had been removed from Mission Fields and "we have a forestry station not equipped to

Mission Tract

Residents of the Mission Tract overflowed seating accommodations in the council chambers at their meeting. As at the Carmel Point meeting, Chairman Whittlesey asked proponents of annexation to speak first. Those who re-

By Harry W. Fletcher

We gather 'round tradition's festive board, my friends and I on each Thanksgiving Day; and offer up our praise with one accord, and give pretended thanks, each in his way.

Whatever grudging gratitude we feel, depends on what throughout the year we've gained. For some it just concerns the present meal, while some are glad that finally it rained.

But, for myself, I'm glad that I am here, as each new day from dawn to dusk unfolds; to live so long and contemplate no fear of what, such as it is, the future holds.

I'm grateful for each staunch, serene old friend, and those related closer to my heart. I hope at times I'm able to extend my understanding love, though far apart.

Yet, while we're thankful for our lucky lot, remember, there are others in this land — the ones by chance that circumstance forgot to likewise boost and give a helping hand.

Consider then the turkey, doomed to die — have pity on his fate and turn him loose. This noble bird will thank you, same as I; so roast instead a duckling or a goose.

Fall "Mussel Hustle"

At low tide on Sunday morning, Howard Byrne, Fire Chief Robert Smith, his three sons, Hans, Eric and Mark and Elio Chiappe, went gathering mussels in Carmel Bay, hundreds of them. These were all de-barnacled and taken to Reamer's Beach on Carmel Point for the "mussel hustle" which Mr. Byrne and his wife gave for a very representative and large cross-section of the community.

The mussels were cooked over a big fire on the beach, then served, piping hot to be eaten with special sauces prepared by Mrs. Byrne, also French bread and wine bottled by the host.

The guests at the party, an event joyfully anticipated, met as the sun shone and stayed until a flaming sunset made Point Lobos a dark silhouette and the greening hills were tinted with a soft pink glow.

The Byrnes' mussel feeds take place twice a year. One is held in the spring and the other in the fall.

Joy Fehring, who is majoring in education at Davis, will travel homeward tonight, too. William, known as Dutch, and Edna Fehring, Ted's brother and sister-in-law, with their two children, Carol Jane and Anne, plus Anne's current "boy friend," Bob Taylor, will arrive tonight also from Palo Alto. Julie and Joy Fehring, both students at Carmel Junior High School, are, Mrs. Fehring says, "right here, thank goodness, to dash to the village for little bits and pieces I've forgotten; and Grandpa P. H. Grote, my father, will be major-domo."

The crowning toast of the day will be to Grandma and Grandpa Lynn Fehring who will be celebrating their 58th wedding anniversary. Grandma and Grandpa Fehring came to Carmel for Christmas from Terre Haute, Indiana, four years ago, and they just haven't gotten around to going back. In fact they are happily settled in their home just two doors from the Ted Fehrings.

Tom and Jane Hudson, living closest, will probably arrive first, with Tim, Dan and Sally. Allan and Mary, with Mike, Peggy, Betsy, Sandy, Sarah, Peter and Martha, haven't far to travel from Oliver Road in Mission Fields.

David and his wife, Sabra, with Matthew and Holly, will drive down from San Rafael.

John and Johanna with their son Christopher arrived on Tuesday from Los Angeles.

Walker Tract, Mission Fields

In time relinquished to him by Mrs. Del Wermuth, Mr. Gilmour stated a report that bookmobile service to Mission Fields would cease with annexation was untrue. Major annexation costs had been misrepresented as being the responsibility of the areas to be annexed, he emphasized.

Mail delivery would not be discontinued unless 500 persons signed a petition asking for this service to end, was a fact he said he had ascertained that day in a telephone call to Ralph Germain of the post office department in San Francisco.

"Can we rightly turn our back on responsibility to our community?" Mr. Lyon queried opponents to annexation, then added, "It will cost more but be well worth paying."

He urged annexation and the advantages of the outside areas having the benefit of the wisdom of a city council devoted to retaining "the charm which has attracted us here" and not allowing the city to become "a second Santa Cruz."

"What Carmel does will have a very direct effect on us," he concluded referring to Mission Fields where he lives.

Colonel Black thought Carmel's zoning ordinances were more congenial to his area, the Walker Tract, than county zoning. He also stressed the need for more fire and police protection."

"I favor annexation even though it would cost more," he ended.

Mrs. Adams said she lived ten feet outside the city on Mission Street in the Walker Tract.

"I consider Carmel my town," she continued, then added that she desired to vote as a citizen of Carmel.

Mr. Freeman of Mission Fields observed that he had lived in and outside of Carmel. "It's lots more fun and more enjoyable to be in than out. It's a pleasure to vote for city council members," he declared.

He obtained from Fire Chief Robert Smith and Police Chief Clyde Klaumann the information that the cost of protecting outside areas annexed to the city would not be "prohibitive."

Chief Smith said fire protection in Mission Fields could be provided by the water company reinstalling removed hydrants and and the city would pay $4.50 per month per hydrant thereafter.

Chief Klaumann said his department was set up to handle 15,000 persons as it now exists. The only change required would be providing day and night police patrols in any annexed area.

First speaker for the opponents to annexation was Mrs. Holbrook of Mission Fields. She was sure that mail delivery would cease with annexation.

Major Wecker, referring to a request to circulate annexation petitions in Mission Fields said, "How come less than five percent can force this intrusion of privacy? Why should non-owners have control of our property?" Only "people who pay the bills" have a right to decide on annexation, he asserted.

Mrs. Beardsley said that she and her husband did not live on the edge of Hatton Fields Mesa to "seek more prestige" but by the design of the U.S. Government. She said she was satisfied wth existing fire and police protection.

Mr. Trapkus, who lives in Rio Way Tract, opposed annexation because it mgiht cause his taxes to rise 17-20 percent.

"All annexation would give me is an opportunity to pay higher taxes," he concluded.

Mr. Argust of Mission Fields thought annexation would disturb "good control of our area." The county did not favor expansion of nonconforming uses. Carmel has allwed "time and again encroachments on zoning laws. I am happy with the laws the county has set down," he told the ad hoc committee.

Arthur R. Willert, chairman of the anti-annexation committee in the areas being discussed Tuesday night, declared, "Carmel has nothing to offer; no hospital, no school, no sanitation or mail delivery; no mobile library service; no streets better than ours."

If more protection were desired, this could be provided by a county service aren at less cost than joining the city, he asserted.

In conclusion, he said out of 200 questionnaires sent out, 106 were returned opposing annexation; only three favored it.

Mr. Cunningham stated that residents of Mission Fields tie economically and culturally to Carmel less each year. They do not shop in the city and cultural ties are felt equally towards other Peninsula communities, was his opinion.

County organization offered ample opportunity to practice good citizenship, he believed.

"I prefer where I selected to live. I selected not to live in the City of Carmel," he concluded.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The power of Truth over illusion will be a central theme at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The hypnotic nature of evil will also be described in a Bible Lesson on the subject: "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced."

Featured will be this vivid passage from Revelation 12: "And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world."

Related readings from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "Mortal mind is constantly producing on mortal body the results of false opinions; and it will continue to do so, until mortal error is deprived of its imaginary powers by Truth, which sweeps away the gossamer web of mortal illusion . . . Truth casts out error now as surely as it did nineteen centuries ago" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 403, 495).

Hike In Drizzle

by Ginny Smith

The Pine Cone Troop (2063) took a hike led by Girl Scouts Brooks Bennett and Julie Eagleton.

We started at Woods School. There we learned a knot. When everyone came we started, with Brooks and Julie in the lead.

We traveled on a WET trail for a short while, crossed a highway, then stopped. Alesa Smith gave all of us little slips of paper for the nature scavenger hunt to occupy us on the rest of the hike. Again we started off, through fields and forest on little paths. We soon reached the Pebble Beach area and went directly to the picnic grounds on Los Altos Road.

We had prepared foil cookery lunches beforehand, so all we needed to do was heat them. Three girls made biscuits in foil for the troop: Betsy Maguire, Ginny Smith and Bonnie Banker. Brooks and Julie made corn bread.

After clean-up and eating, a hot game of "Steal the Bacon" was played. We were going to walk back but thick fog and mist turned into a heavy rain, so the walk back was canceled. Cars were there to bring us home.

Accompanying us on the hike were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith, Mrs. Albert Miller, and Mrs. Raymond Kelly.

Twenty-three girls attended and one boy, Peter Kelly.

Societa di Corelli Provided Evening Of Purest Enjoyment

by H.M.M. Nicholas

The Societa di Corelli again worked its magic on the capacity audience at last Friday evening's concert at Sunset Auditorium, the second in this season's presentations by the Carmel Music Society. The opening Concerto Grosso by their patronal namesake, Archangelo Corelli, immediately informed the listeners that the suave sonority and meticulous ensemble for which this group is noted, had not changed. The audience relaxed and gave itself over to an evening of purest enjoyment.

There is a special appropriateness of style and tone quality when these Italian musicians play the repertory of their own country. However, they showed themselves no less sympathetic when performing the music of Bach and Handel, and the Germanic solidity of these stalwart contemporaries provided excellent contrast to the Latin elegance of the Italian school. It was interesting to hear the Bach Concerto in D Minor played on the piano, and the opportunity was welcomed by those who have not succumbed to the harpsichord, however authentic its contribution! But whichever school of thought one might embrace, one thing stood out in bright relief: Bach is indestructible, his genius is incandescent, and the superb playing of Mirella Zuccarini and the orchestra was for many the top thrill of the evening.

The program was well chosen to display the virtuosity of the group. The Antiche Arie e Danze arranged by Ottarino Respighi from pieces written for the lute, were transcribed with a taste and imagination that preserved the archaic flavor of the originals. In their performance the infinite variety of effect and color of which a fine string group is capable, was gloriously demonstrated.

A highlight of the evening was a superb violin solo (with cello and keyboard continuo) in the Vivaldi opus which proved to be an exquisite example of the noted Venetian composer's gift for a long-spun-out breathtaking melodic line.

A sprightly encore by Rossini abounded in brilliant passagework calling for sparkling bow technique which was forthcoming in abundance; even the double bass came in for its moment of glory in a short solo. It was the perfect bonbon to conclude the musical feast.

Since comparisons are odious, suffice it to say that the Societa di Corelli is unquestionably as satisfying and rewarding as any similar group which appeared here, and, to this writer's taste, a cut above most of them.

Audubon Adventure In Tropical Mexico

Lured by the promise of actually seeing giant roseate spoon-bills flying high and free; and an iguana, the tropical tree clinging lizard, so dramatically featured in the famous novel "Dr. No" by the late master story teller, Ian Fleming, Mrs. Irving Ridenour of Carmel and Mrs. Janusz I. Kodrebski of Pacific Grove, members of the Audubon Society of Monterey Peninsula, who planned to attend the society's national convention in Tucson, Arizona, in mid-November, went two weeks in advance to Mexico, as members of the organization's pre-convention tour.

Mrs. Kodrebski, a world traveler, gave a graphic account of the natural wonders encountered during the fortnight tour of the west coast of Mexico.

"Travelling in one of Mexico's luxury buses, equipped with a delightful refreshment bar, a lounge and rest rooms, our objective was San Blas, a beautiful town built on the banks of a tropical river in the state of Nayarit. Literally, thousands of birds—254 varieties we were told—flew in flocks across the sky or danced swiftly and lightly across the waters.

"The spoonbills, a vivid shocking pink with great scarlet bills, and the albatross, with their amazing wing-spread, were awesome. Brilliantly vari-colored parrots measured our intentions with jewelled eyes. The iguanas, hundreds of them, clinging to the trees, were blood chilling. And most endearing of all were the minute vermillion "fly catchers," racing across the sands, or busily searching for banquets in the sands.

"Bird watching did not take up all of our time. We were guests at Mexican fiestas. We visited craftsmen, weavers and potters, whose arts are hundreds of years old; and we saw tropical flowers in superb profusion."

Reaching Tucson in time for the Audubon convention, Mrs. Ridenour and Mrs. Kodrebski greeted the president of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, Miss Beatrice Howitt of Pacific Grove; Major General Frank Culin of Pebble Beach, a delegate to the convention; Mrs. W. E. Schenck of Carmel, editor of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society publication, "The Sanderling," also Mrs. Cleveland X. Henning and Mrs. Douglas Carter of Carmel.

Programs, motion pictures in color of wild life, with accompanying speakers, sponsored by the national Audubon Society, are given periodically at Sunset School. Membership in the national society is $8.50 per year, entitling members to affiliate membership in the local organization and a subscription to the national magazine. The Monterey Peninsula Society meetings are held the second Friday of each month, with bird-watching and wild life walks at frequent intervals.

COME TO THE FAIR

Every girl and boy at the Palo Colorado School, also their teacher, Mrs. Nancy Bottero, who enjoys her work so much that she "wouldn't trade it for the world," and an enthusiastic and talented group of parents and friends of the school are devoting every spare minute they can find to preparations for the forthcoming Christmas Fair to be held at the school (located 12 miles south of Carmel on Highway One) from mid-morning to mid-afternoon on December 12.

The second annual fair will have a beautiful and interesting assortment of items to delight and surprise the visitors. Displays will be on the various levels of the school grounds. On one will be pony and pony cart rides for the children.

On another will be table after table laden with cookies, cakes, candies, nuts and many other holiday foods.

The largest parking and play area will be filled with an abundant array of original-design and handmade gifts. For the most part, all of the materials used will have been gathered within the area of Palo Colorado Canyon, or have been donated by those who wish to help with this worthwhile endeavor.

Among items in this area will be Yule logs made of eucalyptus bark and tied with bright ribbon for unique and useful Christmas gifts, for after they have been enjoyed for their original beauty, they can be used for fireplace burning.

There will be wreaths of native greens, pine cones and dried seeds; bookends of plaster of Paris covered with rocks and shells; and necklaces of tumbled jade. Some students have chosen to make clay offerings, ash trays and little dishes, hand decorated and "fired." There will be a scramble table with pretty potholders and many one-of-a-kind surprises.

The idea of the fair came about because of a desire on the part of the schoolchildren to help themselves. They wanted books for their library. So they planned to make items they could sell and thus raise money. The months of planning, the countless hours of willing labor that went into the preparation, and the extraordinary number of useful and lovely articles that were made last year, were rewarded in a wonderfully tangible way. A good sum of money was acquired with which to purchase many needed volumes. It is hoped that this year the Christmas Fair will be equally successful.

Do come to the Fair!

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The characters of Dickens' Christmas Carol will come alive during the annual Christmas Party given by the Parents Club and the Big Sur Grange on December 18. The first, second and third grade children of the Captain Cooper School, under the direction of Gene Perrine, will present a delightful play, which is "all about Ebenezer Scrooge," that hard and avaricious man depicted in Dickens' Christmas Carol, who is made kindly by certain "happenings" on Christmas Eve. Following the play, Santa Claus, together with two teen-age helpers, will present each of the guests with a stocking filled with candies, fruits and a gift.

This annual Christmas Party for the members of the Big Sur community is eagerly looked forward to. Each family brings their favorite food, candy, cookies, little sandwiches.

HOLIDAY TRAVEL

The William Harnett family of Big Sur will spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Harnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Johnston, in Sioux City, Iowa. Bill and Norma Harnett and their daughters, Nancy and Janet, will leave Big Sur (where Mr Harnett is a member of the park service at Pfeiffer State Park) about December 10 and drive the southern route across the United States. They will take time, enroute, to see the South Rim of the Grand Canyon, linger a while in the Indian country of New Mexico and have a day in Independence, Missouri, which they plan to spend at the new Harry S. Truman Library.

A.F.A. CHRISTMAS EVENT NEXT WEEK

For purchase and for do-it-yourself inspiration, hundreds of colorful Christmas decorations will be presented by the local chapter of American Federation of Arts at its Tuesday and Wednesday showing next week. The event is slated for the Terrace Room of the Mark Thomas Inn and will include two gala evenings as well as daytime viewing starting at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

Tuesday's Champagne Preview Party from 6 to 8 p.m. is open to the public with only a limited number of tickets still available. Wednesday's International Night promises colorful flavor with German and French carols to be sung by choirs from the Santa Catalina School for Girls and Christmas trees decorated in international theme.

Assisting as hostesses will be foreign students from Monterey Peninsula College who will wear native costume. The price of a ticket for the latter evening also includes the opportunity to win one of the door prizes which are donations of work by outstanding Peninsula artists Sam Manning, Malcolm Moran, Donald Buby and Anthony Melendy.

Tickets for the two days' events are on sale in Carmel at the A.F.A. Gallery (624-2918) at Lincoln and Ocean, the Emile Norman Gallery, Ober's, Artist's Palette and Studio Art Supplies.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Carmel Art Association, the following artists were elected to active membership—Roy R. Spafford of Pacific Grove, painter, and Ken Wiese of Carmel, sculptor.

---

The current exhibition at the American Federation of Arts Gallery on Lincoln Street south of Ocean Avenue is a one-man show of woodcuts, serigraphs, drawings and sculpture by Bradford Smith. This show will last through December 10 and may be seen weekdays from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 2 - 5 p.m.

The Castle Art Gallery in Santa Cruz will give a champagne reception on Saturday for Russell R. Tripp, the young painter whose work is being shown at the gallery from November 29 - December 31.

The 22-year-old artist terms his technique "romantic realism." He employs draftsmanship and composition with extensive research in 16th and 17th century costuming and palette, thus evolving a modern Renaissance effect in his paintings.

Some lucky Peninsula artist will see his or her work reproduced for world-wide distribution, also become dollars richer as a winner in the poster art contest now underway by the Visitors and Convention Bureau.

According to General Manager Margi Setchel, the winning entries will be used to illustrate the promotional activities of the bureau primarily in developing suitable travel display posters.

Cash awards of $300, $150 and $50 will be given by the bureau as first, second and third prizes.

A nationally recognized panel of artists will select the winners which will be announced at a special awards luncheon.

Contest rules are:

1. Competition is open to all artists (student, amateur and professional) living in the Monterey Peninsula area bordered by Marina on the north, Carmel Valley on the east, and Big Sur on the south.

2. All submissions must be original art in full colors in any medium desired (oil, water color, etc.); unframed size must be 22 x 28 inches.

3. The required theme is to attract visitors to the Monterey Peninsula by extolling its natural beauties and attractions.

4. The original layout must include the following wording incorporated in reasonably large scale so that it is legible from about 150 feet (approximately 3 inches in height): MONTEREY PENINSULA, CALIFORNIA.

5. Each entry must have the participant's name, address and telephone number affixed to the back.

6. All entries must be mailed or delivered in person to the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, 353 Camino El Estero, P.O. Box 489, Monterey, to arrive no later than 4 p.m., January 11, 1965.

Copies of the contest rules are available at the Chamber Office. All winning entries become the property of the Visitors and Convention Bureau, a department of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, to be used as it determines.

Bond Election Figure Set By MPC Trustees

Monterey Peninsula College trustees last week set the amount of the February 16, 1965, college bond election at $4,712,000.

The figure was reached by deducting matching funds expected from federal, state and other sources from the more than $6 million required for completion of a campus to accommodate 3,000 day students by 1969.

Dr. George J. Faul, MPC president, pointed out that the college now has adequate facilities for only 700 students, though over 1800 are currently enrolled in the day program alone. Total enrollment, with evening students, is around 4,000.

Emphasis in the planned four-phase building program will be placed on classrooms, laboratories, student body areas and offices related to instruction. These will be scheduled for maximum utilization and many will be multi-story buildings, Dr. Faul said.

With passage of the February bond issue, the maximum tax raise would be 17 cents per $100 assessed valuation according to Dr. Faul. For the owner of an $18,000 house, this would be the equivalent of less than three postage stamps a week.

Robert Littlefield of Monterey has been announced as co-chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the MPC Bond Election by Charles Simpson, chairman.

KING CITY PLAY

"Best Foot Forward," a three-act comedy of errors with a military school background, will be presented December 4 and 5 in the King City auditorium.

This presentation will be the senior play of the Class of 1965 at King City High School.

The production, with music by George Gershwin and Cole Porter, will be staged and directed by Frederick Santon, head of the speech and drama department at the school. He is a graduate of New York University and attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, also appeared professionally on Broadway.

Carmelites Far Away This Thanksgiving Day

'We are having eight guests for dinner,' she reports, 'Two priests who teach in the university; our landlady and her husband; and four students. I decided on two turkeys, because they're so much smaller than our California birds . . . and I'm very excited about the plum pudding, it should taste just like, well almost like, home. I want to live up to Carmel traditions for our guests having their first real American Thanksgiving dinner!' "

Miss Sophie Harpe, who left for the Orient in late October, is in Tokyo right now. She will be somewhere in India at Christmas time and, as her plans go along, home for Easter.

Mrs. Rhea Diveley, touring the Orient writes, "I am not too hopeful about turkey for Thanksing, Christmas either, but the ship's cuisine, Dutch or Oriental, take your choice, is really spectacular—a surprise every day." Rhea will be in Bombay for both festive holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Conger (Harriet Rider) have been aboard ship in the South Seas since September. They expected to be back in their Country Club home by Thanksgiving, but write from the Philippines to expect them "at the latest, by Christmas Eve."

While four Fehring daughters will join other members of the family at the Ted Fehring festive Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow, Janet, with her husband, Jerry Elmer Berg, will be in far off Zomba, Malawi, Africa, where Jerry is legal advisor to the prime minister of that country and Janet is teaching in the high school.

"All my young pupils are very cheery, quick at learning, and very, very black," Janet writes, "In fact white people are beginning to look a bit wan to me!"

Whether or not Janet and Jerry will eat turkey tomorrow is a question, but Janet writes that food is plentiful, with lots of American - type foods available. The big news is that the young Bergs will be back home again in June.

Judith van Loben Sels Mirrer and her husband, Eugene, in Switzerland, where Eugene is a medical student, haven't written Judith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. van Loben Sels, of their Thanksgiving plans, but it does seem highly probable that a turkey will feature in their celebration of the day.

In a letter to her parents, the Shelburn Robisons, Alexandra who is studying at the University of Madrid, reported quite dolefully, that she would be taking mid-year exams on Thanksgiving Day. But she will make up for it at Christmas time when she will spend the holiday season in Athens, the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. John Sand. Mrs. Sand is the former Nancy Hale of Carmel, and there will be the four Sand sons at home in Athens too. Mr. Sand is attached to the U.S. Embassy there.

PEACE CORPS

Letters to their parents from Carmel's young Peace Corps workers give little news of holiday celebrations.

Dick Ogden writes his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Murle Ogden ,from Venezuela, "My new partner (a New Yorker) and I are coping as best we can, with slim funds, in this little town, 200 miles from Caracas. We have raised $1,000 with our bingo tournament and with that money we have literally rebuilt, painted and refurnished the Y.M.C.A. We have enormous and enthusiastic classes in track, swimming, basketball and football—and the soap box derby was a howl, a brand-new idea to our boys who can whoop and yell, just as loud and long as Carmel High's best! I don't see any prospect of turkey for Thanksgiving, but I can hope!"

Sam Farr, in Medellin, Columbia, South America, doesn't see much prospect of turkey and cranberry sauce, either, this week or for Chrstmas, but he writes his parents, Senator and Mrs. Fred Farr, that his job is rewarding, far beyond expectations.

Tenth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arne Kippenes celebrated their tenth anniversary in the restaurant business on the Peninsula last Thursday evening. A host of friends made during these years was invited to festivities in the Scandia Restaurant.

Natives of Norway, Arne and Dorthe provided a marvelous array of Scandinavian-style open-faced sandwiches for their guests, also petit fours and delicious pies. These delicacies were enjoyed with champagne and music for dancing was played by a combo.

"A wonderful party," was the most-heard remark as the party-goers congratulated their host and hostess on their anniversary celebration.

INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Donald T. Marshall was in a three-car collision on Saturday afternoon at the crest of the Ocean Avenue hill near Guadalupe street. Langford T. Alden of Carmel glanced away from traffic just as he reached the crest where two cars were stopped for cross traffic. His car struck Mr. Marshall's car, pushing it into the third car.

Suffering painful injuries, Mr. Marshall was taken to Community Hospital and later released. He returned, however, to the hospital on Monday where it was discovered that he was suffering from a severe whiplash. The hospital reports that Mr. Marshall is improving, under treatment.

Date Set For Sand Castles On The Beach

but there is a remote possibility the cove may not be in buildable condition if Neptune turns ratfink and decrees a very high tide. In this case the scene will be at the foot of Ocean avenue.

RULES

Rules: None. Though rules might help our august judges in their ponderous decisions, past experience convinces them that rules here are something that there are too many exceptions to. The main points are good fun, earnest attempts at fair judging, and fair play. It would be well, however, to leave the dog at home, lest he innocently destroy someone's hard day's work.

Entry fee: None. Materials should be natural and preferably native to the beach, but, though frowned upon by judges and sticklers for form, fancier measures have been taken. Equipment: Shovel and pail, what else?

Contestants can start as early as they like Sunday morning, but they should plan to be through before 2:00 p.m. at which time judging begins. The names of the judges will be announced later. This is to preclude dastardly attempts on the part of unscrupulous castle builders to corrupt this incorruptible, busy group of men who must not be annoyed with offers of riches.

You may ask "Isn't December a rather strange time for beach activites?" It is, but Mr. Brown explains it this way:

"This," he says, with a furtive look over his shoulder, "is a well conceived plot to get only the cream of castle builders. Those who are fired with burning zeal, a real need, you might say, build the best castles!" Then, in tones of cold contempt he adds, "The fair weather sand artists, the fireside-huggers and frogdogglers — well we want nothing but sincere sand castles!"

If you are a compulsive castle builder, some sort of a nut, or just enjoy a Number One, First Class fun day, this is for you. Grab your family, pail and shovel and go, man, go, to the Great Sand Castle Contest. Dig?

Birthday Party

Three very young socialites, Kate, the three-year-old daughter of the Frederick Riders, and just-a-bit-older Kate and Kim Pilkenton, travelled to Salinas on Saturday afternoon to attend the birthday party of Jayanne Kuster, who was six. Jayanne is the daughter of the Colin Kusters. She cut the cake herself for her 16 guests.

Preview Tea

The Monterey County Symphony Guild will give a preview tea on Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

The Mayor's Holiday

Carmel's mayor, Herbert Blanks, with Mrs. Blanks and their son, Donald, a senior at Carmel High School, will leave this afternoon for Clarksburg, to celebrate Thanksgiving with Mrs. Blanks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes.

"My father-in-law is retired now," Mayor Blanks said, "but for 16 years he was a member of the State Reclamations Board. Mrs. Blanks and I have been eating Thanksgiving dinner at the ranch every year since 1937, and I can tell you, I am now on a diet, 24 hours in advance of tomorrow's dinner, I want plenty of room! Bert, our son, who is a senior at the University of California, and our eldest, George, with his wife and their baby, Deborah, of San Jose, will be there too; plus my wife's sister, Mrs. Ruth McConnell and her children."

Under The Redwoods

"You can't really call it a cookout, Mrs. Rod Wilson said, but a Thanksgiving dinner at Big Sur for a jolly group of Carmelites and their guests is very nearly that although the birds are roasted at home.

Tomorrow will mark the fifth annual Thanksgiving dinner under the great trees in Big Sur State Park for close to half a hundred hardy and hearty celebrants of all ages.

The list, like Topsy, grows each year, and each year surprise families arrive. So far as it can be verified, trundling down the highway, their cars laden with goodies, will be Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, with their two daughters, Nicki home from Stanford, and Sherri, home from the University of California, Santa Barbara, and Bruce Bennett, also from U.C.; the Philip Smiths, with Margaret's daughter, Judy Hensel, and former Carmel residents, Chuck and Hazel Mohler with son, Chaco, from Tiburon.

Also, the Leslie Emerys, with 14 guests; Major Ellen Mastroianni; and the Gus Arriolas with their son, Carlin, home from U.C. at Santa Barbara for the holiday, and Mrs. Arriola's mother, Mrs. R. M. Sevier.

The Arnold Bowhays of Pebble Beach will be there, too, with an indeterminate number of guests; also, Jean Arthur, Fred Klepich, and the W. E. van Loben Sels, with their son and daughter and houseguests.

Way Fair Bazaar To Be Next Week

The ladies of the Church of the Wayfarer will hold a bazaar, or "Way Fair," on December 4 as a grand finale for the 60th anniversary celebration of the church. Mrs. John R. Christy is chairman for the affair which will be held in the educational building on Seventh and Lincoln avenues. The pre-holiday affair will open at 10 a.m. with luncheon served from 11 o'clock on.

Patrons of the "Way Fair" will find a large selection of various items to simplify their Christmas shopping. The articles and those responsible for their collection are: attic treasures, pictures frames and books, Mrs. Walter Tittle; home baking, Mrs. Roger F. Wiley; Christmas gifts and decorations, Mrs. R. C. Catlett; nearly new items, Mrs. Cree L. Wilder; jewelry, Mrs. H. J. Danelz and Mrs. John R. Christie; and luncheon, Mrs. C. John Viking.

AN ANTIQUE SIDEBOARD OR BUFFET will find plenty of wall-space in the 16x21 dining room of a handsome Monterey colonial on the Del Monte Fairway. Lots of room for guests in this 5 bedroom home, and what a house to decorate for Christmas! Priced at $78,950.

WAINSCOATED WITH WALLPAPER above, and carpeted in a color to pick up the paper, this dining room is a real eyecatcher at the end of the stonelite tile passage and through the formal columns. Beautiful lighting fixtures complete the setting in this new 2-bedroom-den home at $49,500.

PANELED IN SOFT PATINA WOOD and carpeted with practical mustard brown carpeting, completely closed off from the rest of the house with handsome double doors to the living room. Beautiful lighting fixtures. This 3 bedroom home is $46,500, and located in the Country Club.

GORGEOUS GOLD FOIL PAPER with a formal design, carpeting in off-white to beige shade, creamy off-white paneling, lovely chandelier, small-paned windows—what a pretty dining room in this 4 bedroom home for only $49,500.

Mission Tract

sponded were Miss Marjorie Fontana, Brigadier General Robert P. Williams, Arthur Strasburger, Dr. Ernest Kirwan, Andy Wiemann, Colonel Montgomery C. Jackson and William van der Sluis.

Opponents of annexation numbered one more than the proponents. Those not in favor of annexing to the city were James Parks, Dan Daly, Rolf K. Evans, John Stanton, Richard B. Carr, Mrs. S. Y. Cutler, R. Rolleston West and Violet Beahan.

Miss Fontana declared her "heart was in Carmel." She was much in favor of annexation and would like to be able to elect councilmen, also vote on vital issues brought before the council, she said.

General Williams described Carmel as a small, sharply circumscribed city surrounded by unincorporated areas with increasing population. The latter areas could "go to pieces" because they are not planned and operated with a central policy such as exists within the city, was his opinion.

General Williams favored annexing to Carmel and becoming part of an organized city with a council, fire and police departments.

Arthur Strasburger, a resident of this area for over 30 years, both in and out of the city limits, also a businessman affiliated with the Carmel Business Association, said he lived in the Mission Tract so that his family might be near the beach and River School. He emphasized the value of being protected by the Carmel police and fire departments and added that these extra services were worth the $1.50 a week it would cost taxpayers in his area if they joined the city.

"Only by being in the city can we say how Carmel is to be run and developed," he declared.

Dr. Kirwan desired the police and fire protection afforded by annexation. Carmel was a distinguished town and he would like to officially belong to it, he said.

Andy Wiemann stressed police and fire protection which would be made available by annexation. He cited board of fire underwriters classifications as proof that Carmel, in Class Five, was better protected from fire than the Mission Tract in Class Eight.

Police protection to his area by Carmel would cost little extra and be worth the price, he contended.

Mr. Wiemann also pointed out that many residents of his area would like to have a voice in a local government more concerned with Mission Tract needs than the county supervisors, only one of whom lives in this vicinity.

"I hope the city council will give us an opportunity to vote on annexation," he ended.

Colonel Jackson wanted to annex to Carmel to receive fire and police protection. Mr. van der Sluis wanted "to see the annexation question come to a democratic vote."

Mr. Parks led the speakers against annexation. He said, "To the best of our knowledge there was no preliminary research in our area to learn the desires of property owners."

The request to circulate an annexation petition received by the city council had come from a "few signers," he declared. A questionnaire had revealed that "the majority is opposed to annexation," he said, and concluded by saying that relations between Mission Tract residents and the Sheriff's office and Carmel Hill State forestry department fire station "were splendid."

Mr. Daly objected to a possible 17 percent increase in taxes if the Mission Tract joined the city. Cost of annexation would be one dollar per $100 assessed valuation, he predicted.

Mr. Evans said, "I do feel that most residents in my neighborhood are not in favor of annexation at this time," and added, "proponents deserve every respect but I think the measure will be defeated."

Mr. Stanton confined his remarks to the possibility that mail delivery to the Mission Tract might cease if the area annexed to the city and that such a situation would be a hardship to older residents.

A resident of the Walker Tract for less than a year, Mr. Carr emphasized he was "completely satisfied with the status quo."

He judged that annexation would radically change the character of Carmel; add to the complexity of problems already existing in the city. He concluded by remarking that he would like to see annexation postponed five to ten years.

Mrs. Cutler related that she and her husband bought their property in the Mission Tract in 1955 knowing they would be outside the city and were happy to be so.

"I would like to see it (Mission Tract) stay unincorporated," she observed.

Mr. West stated that the proponents of annexation could do nothing about flood control in the marsh area on the southern boundary of the Mission Tract other than what is now being done by the county in cooperation with the state. He approved of present fire protection in his area and did not want additional police controls.

Mrs. Violet Beahan believed that if Carmel had to take over flood control in the Mission Tract, this would "bankrupt Carmel. I would rather sue the county."

Annexation would mean that Carmel would get bigger and bigger and thus lose its charm, she stressed.

In a brief rebuttal, Miss Fontana said that the $6.08½ per month it would cost her to become a part of Carmel was "peanuts."

ADVICE ON TREES

Kiwanis Report

Hal Rutherford, a Carmel realtor, was welcomed as a new member of Carmel Kiwanis by Al O'Connell at Thursday's luncheon in Pine Inn.

Speaker of the day, Ted Duffy, held his listeners in rapt attention as he told of Pacific Grove's volunteer "navy patrol."

The entire seafront in Pacific Grove, to a depth of 60 feet, was given by the State of California as a city park. Within the past two years, skin divers from everywhere increased in droves and policing the beach became a citizens' problem. Local skin divers organized and became an auxiliary of the Pacific Grove police force known as "McAnaney's Navy."

The duties of the volunteers include training boaters in water safety, safeguarding skin divers, and keeping in readiness to perform rescues.

The area is nationally famous as an underwater park, attracting amateur as well as professionl skin divers. The volunteers in "McAnaney's Navy" are busy men, the year around.

Mr. Duffy accompanied his talk with color slides of the Pacific Grove and Pt. Lobos seafronts. The underwater views, seen in reality only by skin divers, were taken with the use of artificial light.
